WRITING ACTIVITY

A rhetorical question is a question that you don't actually answer.

Activity 1: Read this text and count how many rhetorical questions are used, then copy the shortest rhetorical question into your book.

Horrid Hotel

The World's Worst Resort

Do you fancy a really rubbish holiday? Are you looking for a miserable fortnight of torrential rain? Well look no further than Horrid Hotel. Who wouldn't want to stay here?

Here at Horrid Hotel, we offer a full range of facilities. Sound good? Why not visit our restaurant? Our disgusting chef cooks up food so vile that even the flies leave it. Appetising, right?

We also offer a swimming pool full of green, slimy algae. Fancy a dip?

Do you want to be up all night? Our plentiful cockroaches and blood-sucking leeches will make sure of that. Love cold showers? Great - that's all we offer here! Hot showers are so overrated, aren't they?

Make sure you book today to guarantee the most heinous room we have to offer. Do we need to ask twice? I thought not.

WRITING ACTIVITY

Activity 2: Turn these sentences into rhetorical questions. The first one has been done for you (don't forget your capital letters and question marks).

1. This will be a really rubbish holiday.
Do you fancy a really rubbish holiday?
2. Visit our rat-infested hotel.
3. Have a freezing cold shower and a terrible night's sleep.
4. Try a splash in our mouldy swimming pool.
5. Eat rotten, smelly food.
6. Lie in the rain on our broken sun beds.

2. Can you tell the story of Romulus and Remus in comic strip form?

THOUGHT OF THE DAY

TAKE A MOMENT TO PAUSE AND CALM YOUR MIND.

Where is your happy place?

Where do you go to stay calm?

Is this a physical place or a memory?

Watch this video and give yourself some time to reflect and feel calm.

I have come into the world as light, so that whoever believes in me may not remain in darkness.
